

AMANDA + JUSTIN

Orlando, Florida

Amanda walked down the aisle of St. John Vianney Catholic Church, the words of love she and Justin had exchanged between closed doors only moments before fresh in her mind. The traditional ceremony was everything they had wanted, the perfect mixture of exquisite detail and effortless romance. The bride wore a silk, drop-waist Lazaro dress with a pearl-encrusted ribbon at her waist. Justin's initials were stitched into the inside of her skirt, an extra-special detail Amanda hadn't been able to go without. Her bridesmaids wore evening dresses of soft grey chiffon that complimented the groomsmen's tuxedos to perfection. And once the ceremony was complete, Amanda and Justin officially declared man and wife, their family and friends welcomed them outside the church with cheering and celebratory bubbles. The reception at the Wyndham Grand Orlando Resort Bonnet Creek commenced with flare as the bride and groom joined their guests for a cocktail hour before kicking off the party with a formal introduction of the newlyweds, the first dance and toasts. A sit down meal of gourmet cuisine waited for the guests, followed by a four-tier wedding cake and a decorative candy station.
